

Stay On the Farm Boys.

One among the mistaken ideas and I will aid tendencies, which has long been prevalent is the desire of boys to quit the farm and go to the town or cities and hunt for some "easy" job. Parents to some extent encourage this. They conclude that their boys will never be gentlemen if they remain on the farm. There can be no greater mistake than this. Your boy may not in his every day garb appear so nice a gentleman as the boys in town, but he has a better opportunity to be a nicer and truer gentleman inwardly. Fine clothes, flashy watch fobs and white hands never did nor never will make a true gentleman. I don't mean by this that there are no nice boys or good people in town; no, no, far from it; there are some as true and noble people—both young and old—in towns as live on the earth. But I mean towns are not a safe place for boys to go with the expectation of getting easy places and having a good time. And we all know, too, the contaminating influences of towns and cities are much greater than in the country and on the farm. So, boys, don't be afraid of the farm. It is both an honorable and pleasant vocation, and you can be just as intelligent as anyone else. Indeed, the occupation will aid you to be more so. Washington, Lincoln, Grant, Garfield, Hamilton, Tilden, Hayes, Blaine and many other noted and worthy men, were farmer boys. And if you never be anything but a farmer, you have the honor of being one of the kings of the land, and everyone, let him be lord of wealth or fame, is dependent upon you for his daily bread. The farmer, too, has the pleasure of being daily associated with all that God has ordained to make one happy and enjoy this life. He is the first to see the morning sun roll up on its golden wheels and the last to view its receding beauty as its sinks back into its far Western home. Rev. Sam Jones says any old negro can raise wheat and any politician can raise hell, but when it comes to raising a boy so that he will make a man you have the grandest work ever intrusted to man. While Rev. Sam's expressions in regard to the matter is rather uncouth, it conveys a grand thought and one that all parents should consider well, for to raise children as they should be is not only grand, responsible, but grave, as well. —Luke in Hodgenville Herald.

Schemes of Nice and Men.

Finley says he "may" make Indianapolis his permanent home. This "may" is important. There is as much virtue in a "may" as in an "if."

The point in this "may" is that after January 7, 1901, Indiana will have another Governor than Mount. The probability is that the next Governor will not believe in protection for murderers, or fugitives from other States charged with complicity in murder. In that event, it might not be convenient for the late Secretary of State to make Indiana his permanent home.

Mr. Finley ought to stick to Kentucky. In no other State of the Union could he have been selected by the Republicans as Secretary of State. But he appears to prefer recently to keep out of the State, and to resort to some to which the Federal Constitution does not extend. If the November election should indicate that Indiana is not thereafter to be an outlying province to which the Constitution is not applicable he might have to flee to some other, perhaps to the Philippines. The Sultan of Sulu, maybe, would like to meet him. Possibly Aguinaldo, if he should escape arrest until next January, would like to have him as an ally.

It is clear, however, that it is too early for Mr. Finley to choose Indiana as a permanent place of residence. It must first be determined whether Indiana is subject to the Federal Constitution, and on that point the judgment of the people can hardly be doubtful. At all events, Nominee Durbin must state whether he intends to make Indiana a refuge for criminals from other States. Unless he shall do this it appears wholly improbable that he will ever be Governor of Indiana. The people of Indiana, we feel sure, do not intend to convert their great State into another Botany Bay. So Mr. Finley's scheme like others of mice and men—mostly mice—"may" gang agley. —Courier-Journal.

World Not Suffer So Again For Fifty Times Its Price.

I awoke last night with severe pains in my stomach. I never felt so badly in all my life. When I came down to work this morning I felt so weak I could hardly work. I went to Miller & McCurdy's drug store and they recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It worked like magic and one dose fixed me alright. It certainly is the finest thing I ever used for stomach trouble. I shall not be without it in my home hereafter, for I should not care to endure the sufferings of last night again for fifty times its price.—G. H. Wilson, Liveryman, Burgettstown, Washington Co., Pa. This remedy is for sale by M. Cravens.

Throw Open Party Doors.

The following extract is taken from Senator Blackburn's open letter to the Democracy of Kentucky, published in the Courier-Journal some days ago:

The paramount question, when no principals is involved, is success at the polls, and it is not of national politics that I desire to speak, but to consider how Kentucky is to be brought back where it belongs, into the Democratic column. Except for dissensions in its ranks, the party is forty thousand stronger in the State than the Republicans. That it should be classed by some in the doubtful list is, to say the least, not flattering nor complimentary to the party leadership in the State. I hope we have safely passed the inflammatory stage and are now so far recovered that we can cease fighting and reason with each other, expending all our surplus energies on the common foe. In all of his public utterances Mr. Bryan has stated, substantially, that the doors of the party are swung open for the return of all Democrats, and also for the reception of new recruits from all parties, which sentiment has been crystallized in the call of the National Committee.

As we are soon to hold a State Convention, and as the call must precede the convention and define who are to be participants, I suggest this: "That all Democrats of every shade of opinion or previous position on platform or nominee, and all other persons who will agree to vote for the party nominees, are requested to participate in the selection of delegates to the State Convention to be held in pursuance of the call." All who accept these terms, who vote and act with the party, will doubtless be at once restored by the people to full fellowship in the party. In selecting the delegates to the National Convention I would like to see none except those who were conspicuously for Bryan and the platform in 1896 sent.

The Senate confirmed the nomination of H. B. Bryson as postmaster at Carlisle.

FISHING PARTY.

A crowd of young folks from Creelsboro, Kendall, Rowena and other points met on Coopers Island taking their dinners, Saturday May 26, 1900, for the purpose of fishing and having a good time in general. Mr. Edgar Campbell, manager of the beautiful boat Creelsboro, run by gasoline brought the crowd to the Island. They arrived about ten o'clock a. m. strolled around over the beautiful large island in search of pretty rocks and shells. About 12 o'clock the dinner was spread and the bountiful feast was served by all, every one enjoying the dinner. After dinner was over we all aboard the boat went up the river to a cliff of rocks where some delightful music was rendered by Messrs. James Meadows, Cameron Dunbar, Ernest Armstrong, Fayette Higgenbottom and a Jew from Glasgow by the name of Sparkerton. We would like very much to give the names but there being so many that we think it proper to leave them off.

But very few fish were caught from the river, but most all fished on dry land, and most every one proved successful. We hope to have another picnic soon, of this kind and hope to have as good behavior and all have as much fun as was enjoyed this time.

A Card of Thanks.

I wish to say that I feel under lasting obligations for what Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has done for our family. We have used it in so many cases of coughs, lung troubles and whooping cough, and it has always given the most perfect satisfaction, we feel greatly indebted to the manufacturers of this remedy and wish them to please accept our hearty thanks.—Respectfully, Mrs. S. Dory, Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by M. Cravens.

Taylor's "running qualities" are first-class, but he will not be nominated for Governor. In fact he will never return to Kentucky until he is brought back.

Last fall I sprained my left hip while handling some heavy boxes. The doctor I called on said at first it was a slight strain and would soon be well, but it grew worse and the doctor then said I had rheumatism. It continued to grow worse and I could hardly get around to work. I went to a drug store and the druggist recommended me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I tried it and one-half of a 50 cent bottle cured me entirely. I now recommend it to all my friends.—F. A. BARCOCK, Erie, Pa. It is for sale by M. Cravens.

L. Hardesty & Son, Mt. Eden, Ky., say: "We consider Morley's Tasteless Chill Syrup the best we ever sold. We sold 40 bottles of it this month and not a failure in the lot. In fact, when our doctors and a case hard to cure, they send to us for Morley's Tasteless Chill Syrup and it never fails to cure." Sold by W. M. Bell, Joppa, Ky.

Congressman D. H. Smith and Chas. K. Wheeler have been renominated without opposition, and Gilbert and Allen will be equally as fortunate.

Now if any of your family are suffering with Chills and fever, aching of the bones, Jaundice, Biliousness, or any other symptoms of Malarial Poison, we earnestly solicit you to try a 50 cent bottle of Morley's Tasteless Chill Syrup, for if used according to directions we know it will cure. No Cure, No Pay. Sold by W. M. Bell, Joppa.

Wonderful Eight

Cures cholera, diarrhoea, colic, cramps, lameness, sprains, lumbago, swellings, pains in the head or body, neuralgia, rheumatism and toothache, all pain, internal or external cured quicker with Morley's Wonderful Eight than any other remedy. Free trial bottles at W. M. Bell's, Joppa.

Precedents are cited by lawyers to show that the Court of Appeals must pass on the motion to affirm as a delay case before the motion to dismiss the minor contest cases without prejudice can be considered. This will block Bradley's scheme to prolong the litigation.
